

Dr. Merino studied medicine in Mexico City and obtained a Master of Philosophy degree on the history of medicine from the University of Cambridge in England. He trained in neurology and psychiatry at the Albert Einstein College of Medicine and in stroke at the University of Western Ontario. He has been faculty or clinical staff of the Section of Stroke Diagnosis and Therapeutics of NINDS, the University of Florida, Johns Hopkins Medicine, the University of Maryland, and Georgetown University medical center. Throughout his career, Dr. Merino has been engaged in editorial pursuits. Most recently, from 2012 until 2019, he was The BMJ's US Research Editor. He became Editor-in-Chief of Neurology and the Neurology family of journals in April 2020.